

Do You Know Your Spouse's Love Language?

Hosea 4:6

- Lack of personal knowledge of God was destroying the people, but not because knowledge was not available.
- So, it is within some Christian marriages today, where married couples are not applying the Word of God and knowledge to strengthen their marriages.
- We have all been misunderstood.
- For the next two weeks we are going to study “The Five Love Languages” by Gary Chapman.
- People speak different love languages.
- There are five emotional love languages.
- If you identify and learn to speak your spouse’s primary love language, you will discover the key to a long-lasting relationship.

- Love Language # 1 - Words of Affirmation

- One of the ways to express love emotionally is to use words that build up.
- 1. Verbal compliments, or words of appreciation, are powerful communicators of love.
- 2. Encouraging words.
- 3. Kind words.
- 4. Humble words.

- Love Language # 2 – Quality Time

- Quality time means giving your spouse your undivided attention.
- 1. Togetherness.
